Dear Stephen,

I am not going to sugarcoat it . . . it's hard.

It's hard watching your husband get attacked. While I know this is all a part of politics . . . my heart hurts when Mitt is attacked. Especially since the attacks have been so vicious . . . not to mention dishonest.

But just because you and I believe that these kinds of gutter attacks have no place in our American political system doesn't mean they are going away. In fact, pundits are predicting they are only going to get worse in the last 40 days of the campaign.

So while the other side continues to paint an ugly picture of who he is and what he stands for, I take comfort in the fact that I know exactly who Mitt Romney is.

It's why I have such a deep and abiding love for the man I fell in love with in high school. Mitt and I have been married for 43 years. We have been blessed with five beautiful sons and 18 grandchildren.

Mitt is a good and decent man. He is warm, and loving, and patient. He has tried to live his life with a set of values centered on family, faith, and love of one's fellow man.

You know Mitt Romney, too.

That's why you have been one of his staunchest supporters. I know he has thanked you for your generous support, but I would like to extend my gratitude as well. Mitt and I are extremely grateful for all you have done to help. Thank you!

Your generous support helped make him the Republican nominee for President of the United States, and your continued generosity will help make him the next President of the United States.

Over, please . . .

I would be especially grateful if you would show Mitt your continued support by returning a contribution of $50, $75, $100, or some other amount.

People always ask what I admire most about my husband. I have a lot to choose from: his integrity, his tireless work ethic, his loyalty, his inherent kindness. But what I admire most about him is his uncanny ability to sense a problem and fix it.

Mitt is amazing at taking charge. At the first sign of trouble, he swoops in and fixes problems. This problem-solving ability served him well in business and in the public sector. And it will serve America well when he is elected president on November 6th.

That is why I am reaching out to you today. The problem is that these despicable attacks are only going to get worse in the 40 days between now and Election Day.

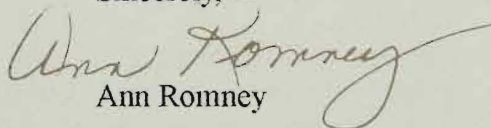

While I can't "fix" the attacks, I can help make sure Mitt has the campaign resources to fend them off and get the truth out.

Will you please rush back a contribution of $50, $75, $100, or some other amount to help Mitt defend his name, his record, and his vision for a stronger America? Our campaign has made it easy to contribute securely online, too. Simply visit www.MittRomney.com/Mail if that's more convenient.

Though it boggles my mind, the President and his allies will likely spend one billion dollars on his re-election campaign and much of that money will be used to attack Mitt.

I know who he is and what he stands for -- and so do you. Now we have to make sure the American people know it, too.

Sincerely,

Ann Romney

P.S. Yes, the attacks hurt, but my heart can handle it. I am not sure America can handle the hurt of another four years of the Obama economy. Mitt has the big, bold solutions needed to fix our economy and get our country back on track . . . so please visit www.MittRomney.com/Mail to make a special additional contribution that will help get him to the White House.
